

Abstract of the Disclosure

Systems, methods, and device are provided for a user profile service.

One embodiment includes a method for user profile service. The method includes collecting user profile data from different network sources in a localized
5 database. Business rules are provided to an application server to manage access to the collected user profile data in the database. The method further includes allowing different network service applications to access the collected user profile data as determined by the business rules.